“Daddy, words can not describe what I feel inside. I know your work here is done, and I accept that. I have so many precious memories I shared with you, two things are in the fore front of my mind. Your presence in all of our lives and the calm of all of our storms. You have given me the greatest gift of all by teaching me how to be a better version of myself, showing me how to stand bravely and face life’s challenges with conviction. One day I will face you again, and again I will thank you for being my dad and for loving me as much as you did. I love you Daddy! Until we meet again, rest in peace.

“ Picking one memory to share from a lifetime of good ones is almost impossible. Swapping hunting stories, comparing our favorite Nascar drivers, discussing if Ford or Chevy was better, listening to old country music on the days I chauffeured you around or bickering about our totally opposite political views! I hope you and mom are cutting a rug somewhere! Together again, for all eternity!
