“ Pat was more than a friend to me. She worked alongside me for twelve years And then she worked for me for another twelve years. She was family. Not a birthday or Christmas when by without us connecting. We shared a love of dolls and bears and for a while we bought everything in 2's: One for me and one for Pat. I think she beat me out on the collections though. She had a bathtub that was devoted to her collection.

We also shared a love for angels. And wherever I go in my house, Pat is right there with me. I wept when I learned she died. The world lost a bit of its light. And I lost a loving, dear friend.
