“ When I heard the news that my beautiful friend Shaton passed away, I was heartbroken. We were best friends in High School. We had a lot of classes together, but History is the one we despised. It was so boring to us, so one day we decided to skip that class and we hid in the bathroom. Lol. Well, about 20 minutes went by and the alarms went off for a fire drill!!! We were so scared and didn't know what to do, so we waited about 5 minutes and decided to peek out of the door. Well.....the Principal, Mrs. Lou Miller was walking by at the same time! We panicked, and told a little white lie that I was having Female problems and Sharon had to come help me. I don't think she bought it, but she let us go outside to find our class! Lol. We had some good times. I'm sorry that I didn't find out about her Memorial Service until after it was over, because I would've been there. I loved her like a Sister, and I am going to miss her so much. R.I.P. my friend. Until we meet again.

Lori, that was precious! My sis thought the world of you and Buffy Johnson :) Thank You for your kind words and memory. Sharon was really dealt a crappy hand in life in her late 30's and only God knows why. I wish I could have changed so much for her to just be happy. That giggle could make you laugh rather you wanted to or not! LOL
